A REJOINDER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

I think my rural friend is too modest. He is dissatisfied with his attainments in "billingsgate," but he has no cause to be so. Possibly he will acquire greater proficiency with time, but at least he is sufficiently well versed in it to descend to personalities and other matters foreign to the subject.

I wish to call his attention to the fact that a mob of blackguards in the gallery does not include every one in the gallery a blackguard, and those whose self-respect bears them up will not feel that they are alluded to. I wish to tell him that he who champions a cause identifies himself with it. I wish to tell him that "the loud laugh which spoke the vacant mind," may ring in his congenial ears as only a "titter," but even so it was not the one only disturbance of the evening. I wish to tell him that Madame Urso had to interrupt one of her pieces to wait for the gallery uproar to subside. I wish to tell him the last trio was almost unheard amid the confusion of people leaving the gallery. I wish to tell him that to sing and shuffling in the gallery occurred from time to time during the entire performance. I might call Mr. Handley a blackguard, but I do not, for possibly he may not be one, but an "ones" man whose sympathy with blackguards is to be deplored. I might call a liar when he says I care not face any man, but I do not do so, because it would be indeed stooping too low, and because everybody is aware that putting my signature to my criticisms is facing every one as much as I can face those I do not know.

And now, Mr. Editor, I wish to notice the courteous and dignified review of my remarks made by the Standard. The word "actors" referred to the perpetrators of the insults. There were no other actors in the house. Before I went to the concert I had heard many complaints of these same disturbances, and surely society is responsible for the continuation of insults to itself and strangers among it. It was this inertness that was criticized, and not respectable gentlemen and ladies who were themselves blushing for conduct which it is their duty to put an end to. They are the city, the disorderly element is not. They are responsible, the mob is irresponsible to anything save law; and now, sir, whose duty is it to enforce the law? If the orderly element of society, which is the vast majority, is not responsible and does not vindicate its insulted dignity, then mob law must prevail, and the disorderly element must be sovereign.

VANCOUVER CORRESPONDENCE.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 27, 1877,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

On Monday evening, 20th inst., the Hon. Mr. Smallwood delivered a temperance lecture before the Women's Christian Union Temperance Association, in the M. E. church, to which your correspondent had the pleasure of listening. The lecturer commenced by stating that he was radical in his views, and that they might not be accepted by all; but so clearly did he elucidate the ideas presented that none but the most narrowminded could take exception to them. A brief synopsis of the lecture may be of interest to your readers: He first showed the remarkable fact that while there has been a great advance in every other line of human investigation and improvement, there has been comparatively no change for the better in the matter of temperance reform. He thought that perhaps failure comes from the too common error of getting the effect before the cause. Abuse of saloon keepers had been a popular feature of our temperance lectures. It is wrong because we cannot convert men by denouncing them. Ridicule of the drunkard is also bad policy. Drunkenness is an evil too serious to be laughed at. He also spoke of the "Crusade" system, and said that it had not been a success. It savors too much of intimidation. Men are contrary animals and cannot be drawn by mere brute force. Prohibitory liquor laws are also a failure. They sound like the last, hopeless, helpless plea of total moral depravity. They are a humiliating confession of the moral weakness of man. We cannot legislate temperance into a people any more than we can legislate religion into them; we cannot scare it into them; we cannot drive it into them by mere brute force.

The remedy he offered was to educate it into them. This was to be done by temperance literature, and by throwing around the young those influences which would give them the strength and manliness to give the emphatic "no" to the temptation, and keep them in the paths of virtue.

The lecture was well prepared and well delivered; and the large and enthusiastic audience showed their appreciation of it by frequent applause.

VANCOUVER.

The Virginia, Nevada, Enterprise gives a new version of the prodigal son story, which didn't terminate favorably for the prodigal:

Some weeks ago a young scapegrace in this city, who had left his parental roof in New York under a cloud in 1865, concluded to "put up a job on the old gentleman and make a raise." He accordingly telegraphed to his father in New York:

"Mr. ——: Your son Walter was killed in the Consolidated Virginia mine this morning by a falling cage. What shall we do with his remains? A. L. BAKER.

Almost immediately a telegraphic order came for $150 and the laconic reply: "Bury them." The fictitious M. L. Baker seized the $150 and went on a royal spree, and a few weeks after he wrote to his father over his real name as follows:

"Dear Father: I have just learned that an infamous scoundrel named Baker sent you a fictitious account of my death and swindled you out of $150. He also borrowed $85 from me and left the country. I write to inform you that I am yet alive, and long to see the old parental roof again. I am in somewhat reduced circumstances, the accumulation of the last five years having been lost—a disastrous stock speculation—and if you will spare me $200 I will ever be thankful for your favor. Give my love to all.

Your affectionate son, WALTER."

A few days later the young man received the following:

"My Dear Son: I have buried you once, and that's an end of it. I decline having any more transactions with the corpse.

Yours in the flesh, FATHER."

Worsted reduced to fifteen cents per ounce at Mrs. Charles Tichnor's.

OREGON.

Circuit court for Marion county opened Monday last, Hon. R. P. Boise presiding.

The East Oregonian reports a movement on foot to build a telegraph line from Pendleton to Umatilla Landing.

The Times says a petition for the pardon of David Briggs is receiving a large number of signatures at Jacksonville.

The Gervais Benevolent Society gave a grand and successful public entertainment, Saturday evening, for the benefit of the Union Sunday School of the town.

The recent rains were needed in Southern Oregon, and their appearance rejoices the farmer and miner. Everything looks encouraging in that section of the State.

Some people at the pleasant town of Hoppner wish to have a whisky mill established there, and others do not. So petition and remonstrance are making a stir.

It is stated that Messrs. J. M. McCall & Co. have taken charge of the Ashland Tidings, owing the continued illness of Mr. J. M. Sutton, who, it is thought will not recover.

Population is increasing on Butter creek. The school district there has about 60 more children within school ages than it had a year ago, do says a correspondent of the East Oregonian.

The treasurer of Jackson county last week carried to the capital that county's portion of the State revenues, amounting to near $9,000. Of this amount $1 500 was silver, weighing 120 pounds.

The wool-growers of Umatilla county have formed an association, to be known as the "Eastern Oregon Wool-growers' Association," with a constitution and by-laws, and such other arrangements as are necessary to effective co-operation. It is a good move.

The Statesman says Jerry Colcwell has received a letter from his brother, written at the Lucky Queen mine on the 25th instant, which says the lode in the lower tunnel is 4 feet wide, with well defined walls, and showing quartz very rich in gold, visible to the naked eye.

The Jacksonville Times says a new town site has been surveyed and mapped out in the immediate vicinity of the Lucky Queen mine, Jump-off-Joe, in Josephine county. The development of the quartz mines in that section so far carries the impress on that their permanence and value are almost assured, and, in the minds of many, the belief exists that quite a mining city may be built up in that region ere many years.

Says the Jacksonville Times: J. T. Roloson, living near Central Point, was shot by his father-in-law, one Knowles, on Thursday last, and seriously, if not fatally, wounded. The ball entered the left side, near the lower part of the chest, and ranged downward and backward, passing through one kidney and lodging in the skin over the spinal column, which it fortunately missed. Knowles came to Magruder's store and told his story, where he was taken in charge by Thos. T. McKenzie, who held him until Deputy Sheriff Seybert arrived on the scene. Family troubles seem to be at the bottom of the affair. Dr Aiken is attending on Roloson, who reports him in a precarious condition, although he was somewhat easier yesterday.

The Mercury publishes the following extract from a letter written from Kansas, by Mr. J. D. Riggs, who was out here last fall: "Everything here is as dead as a door nail. The specimens of fruit and wheat which I brought back seem to surprise all who see them—especially the grain. One of my friends said to tell you he would give you 4 per bushel for 100 bushels of the screenings which I brought back." The sample was a handful of screenings or tailings taken from the cheat-box of the thresher. Mr. Riggs sent out a sample of their spring wheat and says it is a good average of the country. He further says: "My place is for sale, for I have a few more failures here which chinch bugs and grasshoppers, we will all be too poor to come to Oregon. The ground is full of 'hopper eggs. I am going to make an effort to close out here soon."

SECRETARY FISH'S GENEROSITY.

The following specimen of Secretary Fish's generosity is vouched for by the Washington correspondent of the Boston Herald: "During the campaign the tax gatherers employed by the National Committee, after making their collections in other departments, descended upon the State Department and sought to levy contributions there in their accustomed way. They were met at the threshold by the authority of the Secretary of State, who demanded to know what they were about. They told him what they wanted to do. Mr. Fish replied that this could not be done in his department. He asked the agent how much he expected to collect in his department. The agent replied that 2 per cent. of the salaries of the clerks in the department would amount to $5,000, and that was the sum he wanted. Mr. Fish thereupon drew a check for $5,000 upon his own private bank account to the order of the National Committee, and sent the agent away without seeing his clerks. This is one of the reasons why a position in the State Department is preferable to a position anywhere else under the government. The clerks in that department have never been assessed."

Breathing Miasma Without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in fever and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive. It has frequently happened, and the fact has been amply attested by the parties themselves, that persons surrounded on all sides by neighbors suffering the tortures of this shivering and burning plague, have enjoyed absolute immunity from it, thanks to the protection afforded by the Bitters. Nor is that standard anti-febrile cordial less efficacious in remedying than in preventing chills and fever, bilious remittents, and disorders of a kindred type. Taken between the paroxysms, it speedily mitigates their violence, and eventually prevents their recurrence. These facts, convincingly established by evidence, appeal with peculiar force to travelers and sojourners in malarious districts.

We understand that the whooping-cough is quite prevalent in the towns around us; but that no cases have proved fatal. Some families use nothing but Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. Our doctor, however says a little spirituous, to produce vomiting, would be an advantage.

There are more than one thousand different kinds of pills in the United States. Some of them are worthless and injurious, others are good and beneficial. Old Dr. Parsons invented the best anti-bilious pill we ever saw or heard of. They are now sold under the name of Parso's Purgative Pills.

HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM preserves and restores the complexion; removes freckles, tan and sallowness; makes the skin soft, white and delicate. Its application cannot be detected.

LYON'S KATHAIRON makes beautiful, glossy, luxuriant hair; prevents its falling out or turning gray. It has stood the test of 40 years. Is charmingly perfumed, and has no rival.

SWORN STATEMENT OF A
BOSTON DRUGGIST.

Gentlemen,—I hereby certify that I have had Catarrh for ten years, and for the last six years have been a terrible sufferer. I was rendered partially deaf, had buzzing in the head, pains across the temple, dizzy spells, weak and painful eyes, swollen and ulcerated tonsils, hard and constant cough, severe pain across the chest, and every indication of consumption. My head ached all the time. The matter accumulated so rapidly in my head and throat that I could not keep them free. Frequently at night I would spring out of bed, it seemed to me, at the point of suffocation. I would then have recourse to every means in my power to dislodge the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again. For a period of six years my tonsils were ulcerated and so much inflamed that I could with difficulty swallow. I finally consulted an eminent surgeon in regard to an operation on them, but at his request postponed it. The constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat caused by the poisonous matter dropping down from my head had so irritated and inflamed my lungs that I coughed incessantly, a deep, hard cough. Meanwhile my system began to show the effects of this disease, so that I lost flesh, grew pale, and showed every symptom of an early death by consumption. When matters had reached this stage or about six months ago, I began the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. After using the first bottle I began to improve rapidly. The first dose seemed to clear my head as I had not known it to be for years. It seemed gradually to arrest the discharges. It stopped my cough in three days. By using it as a gargle it soon reduced the inflammation and swelling of my tonsils, so that they soon ceased to trouble me. The soreness across my chest disappeared, the buzzing noises in my head ceased, my senses of hearing and of seeing were completely restored; and every symptom of disease that had reduced me to the verge of the grave disappeared by the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

I have been thus explicit because, as a druggist, I have seen a great deal of suffering from Catarrh, and hope to convince many that this is a great remedy.

I am familiar with the treatment of Catarrh as practised by the best physicians, and have consulted the most eminent about my case. I have used every kind of remedy and apparatus that have appeared during a period of six years past, and have, while following their use, taken great care of my general health, but obtained no relief or encouragement from any of them.

Since curing myself with SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, I have recommended it in over one hundred cases without a single case of failure, and have in numerous instances received wholesale orders from parties to whom I have sold one bottle. This is the only patent medicine I have ever recommended never having believed in them before, although constantly engaged in their sale.

Very gratefully yours,
GEORGE F. DINSMORE.

BOSTON, Feb. 23, 1875.

SUFFOLK, ss. Feb. 23, 1875.

Then personally appeared the said George F. Dinsmore, and made oath that the foregoing statement by him subscribed is true.

Before me, ROBERT J. THOMAS,
Justice of the Peace.

AUDITOR'S STATEMENT.

Since the above statement was made I have been rapidly improving in health. I have had no return of the disagreeable symptoms that attended my former sickness, and although affected from time to time with severe colds incidental to the sudden changes in our climate, they have not been sufficient to bring on a return of the disease. My general health has been excellent. I have gained twenty-five pounds and consider myself entirely recovered from a disease that a year ago seemed likely to totally undermine my constitution. Since last February I have consulted with a great many afflicted with Catarrh, and in the hundreds of cases in which I have sold it I have never seen an instance sufficient to shake the confidence I feel in Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh.
